

ADHD Adult Daily Planner

A neurodivergent-designed daily and weekly system for adults who bounce off conventional planners.

HOW TO USE THIS PLANNER

Three rules: 1. Start anywhere. Don't need to fill every page. Pick one section today. 2. Missed days are fine. This planner doesn't punish gaps. Skip to today's date. 3. Brain dump first. Never start with scheduling. Offload your brain first.

What makes this different: - No streak counters that shame you for missed days - "Yesterday's Win" instead of a to-do list that's never done - Energy budget, not goal-setting - Explicit permission to skip, reset, and start again

DAILY DASHBOARD

Date: _____ Energy level: [] High [] Medium [] Low []
Barely functioning

BRAIN DUMP

Write everything in your head here. Don't organize. Just dump.

- _____
- _____
- _____
- _____
- _____
- _____

TRIAGE → TOP 3

Pick 3 things from above that actually need to happen today. 1.

- _____ 2.
_____ 3.

SCHEDULE (only the 3 items above)

Time	Task
_____	_____
_____	_____
_____	_____

YESTERDAY'S WIN

One thing you actually did yesterday. Big or small. It counts.

YESTERDAY'S WIN — ROLLING LIST

Week of: _____

Day	Win (one thing, any size)
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

Empty days are okay. The list doesn't reset. Just keep going.

WEEKLY REVIEW

Date: _____

ENERGY BUDGET

Not what you want to do. What energy level you had this week.

Day	Energy (1-5)	What worked?	What drained me?
Mon
Tue
Wed
Thu
Fri
Sat
Sun

THIS WEEK'S WINS

Not what's on your to-do list. What actually got done.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

ONE EXPERIMENT FOR NEXT WEEK

Pick ONE thing to try differently next week.

MEDICATION & SUPPLEMENT LOG

Date	Time	Medication/Supplement	Dose	Notes
------	------	-----------------------	------	-------

SENSORY OVERLOAD SELF-CHECK

Stop. Rate each 1-5 before deciding what to do next.

Question	1-5
How loud is my environment right now?
How bright/visually busy is it here?
How many tabs/thoughts are open in my head?
Am I hungry/thirsty/over-caffeinated?
Have I moved my body in the last hour?

Score 15+: You're overstimulated. Take 10 minutes. - Go somewhere darker/quiter - Put on noise-cancelling headphones - Close your eyes for 3 minutes - Drink water

Score 10-14: Borderline. - Finish current task, then take a sensory break - Consider earplugs or sunglasses

Score under 10: You're fine. Keep going.

BODY-DOUBLING TIMER PROMPT

Got something you're avoiding?

- ☐ Start a 25-minute timer
- ☐ I'll work on: _____
- ☐ For 25 minutes, that's ALL I have to do
- ☐ After timer: check in, stretch, decide next

Body doubling options: - Use Focusmate (free, pairs you with someone) - Call a friend who also works from home - Put on a "study with me" YouTube video - Tell someone "I'm starting this now" for accountability

WHEN YOU'VE FALLEN OFF — RESET GUIDE

3 steps. No guilt. Takes 5 minutes.

Step 1: Acknowledge (1 minute)

Write down what happened. No judgment. "I stopped using the planner because:"

Step 2: Pick ONE page (2 minutes)

Don't try to catch up. Pick the single most useful page for today. - [] Daily Dashboard (brain dump + triage) - [] Medication Log - [] Sensory Check

Step 3: Do just that page (2 minutes)

Fill in today's date. Write one thing in the brain dump. That's it.

You're back. The gap doesn't matter. Tomorrow you can add another page.

MONTHLY REVIEW

Month: _____

WHAT ACTUALLY HAPPENED

Not what you planned. What you remember doing.

PATTERNS I NOTICED

Energy patterns: _____ Avoidance patterns: _____ What consistently worked: _____

NEXT MONTH'S ONE CHANGE

One thing to try differently. Not a resolution. An experiment.

HABIT TRACKER (No-Shame Version)

Habit	Week 1	Week 2	Week 3	Week 4
Meds taken
Ate protein
Drank water
Moved body
Outside time

Mark a dot for days you did it. Gaps are just gaps. No streak resets.

Built with ADHD brains in mind. Not for neurotypical planners. For humans who bounce off those.